PEOPLE TO FRAME ORDINANCE

Commission Decides That People Should Have First Say in the Matter

COUNCIL WILL THEN ACT

Big Mass Meeting Will be Held at the Armory Tuesday Evening July 2, for Purpose of Discussing Question

Waukegan people will have an opportunity of telling just what kind of a franchise they are willing to extend the Chicago and Milwaukee electric railroad at a big mass meeting that will be held in the armory on Tuesday evening, July 2.

"We don't want to go to all the trouble of preparing an ordinance and franchise and then have the people turn it down," Mayor Bidinger said. "We want to have the people take up the matter first and decide just what they want in the way of a franchise. Then when they have expressed their views on the matter, explaining just what they think the company should give the city in return for the franchise sought, we will see that an ordinance covering all these points is drawn up and passed by the council. It will then be submitted to a referendum vote of the people and inasmuch as the people themselves have framed it, I can see no reason why it should not pass. If we were to go ahead and frame an ordinance that we thought would be fair there would be many who would be opposed to it and would vote against it and the result would be that it would be turned down. If we let the people take the thing into their own hands first and decide just what they want it should give better satisfaction all the way round."

There has been much opposition to the demand of the company that they be given a fifty year franchise and all over the city there is a strong sentiment against the long term franchise. Just how strong this sentiment really is will develop at the mass meeting at which everyone will be given an opportunity to speak his mind.

Mayor Bidinger has suggested to Receiver Johnson and Superintendent Bock that in view of the fact that they are so anxious to have a fifty year franchise, that it would be a good policy for them to have a representative present at the mass meeting who will explain the railroad's side of the matter, telling why it should have a fifty year franchise. The suggestion met the approval of the two officials and they say that they will have a representative in attendance.

Superintendent Bock, in a long distance telephone conversation with Mayor Bidinger declared that he will be in the city soon at which time he hopes to arrange certain matters, just what he did not explain.

One of the reasons why the city officials have decided to put the matter up to the people for a decision at a mass meeting is that there has been little progress in the matter for some little time and the general opinion seems to be that it is time for some sort of action to be taken as the condition of the bridge seems to be getting worse daily and many people are refusing to walk over the condemned structure. A part of the sidewalk on the west side of the bridge sags and rocks as one walks over it and gives the impression that it is about ready to rot through and drop into the ravine. The fact that the armory has been secured insures of a large crowd being present as the bridge matter is the big issue of the day.

CHILD SEVERELY SCALDED WITH HOT TEA

The two year old son of Fred Cashmore of Wadsworth was badly scalded by overturning a teapot full of hot tea Monday night about eight o'clock. It is reported that the little one reached up to the table for the teapot and in so doing overturned it, the hot liquid pouring over his head, face, arm and foot. Dr. Young of Gurnee was called to dress the burns and stated that while the injuries were serious, there was no doubt whatever as to the child's recovery.

ADVOCATES NEW PARTY

But Father Says No, and Also, Says That Roosevelt Is Insane

Although Fred Brown Whitney urges young Americans to battle with Theodore Roosevelt for the purification of American politics, Hon. Charles Whitney, his father, believes the advocate of the progressive party to be mentally unbalanced.

Recently in the court room, Mr. Charles Whitney made this statement: "Roosevelt?—never; he's insane."

Fred Brown Whitney is at present making his home in London. He created quite a stir among English capitalists and politicians recently when he intimated that fraud had crucified this nation's conscience, and said that America's mortality demanded a progressive Democratic-Republican party, that will give the people a clean chance to do the rest—thus obliterating plutocracy and polluted politicians.

A well-known Waukegan Attorney in speaking of the stand Fred Brown Whitney had taken in this matter said: "Fred ought to come home, so that his father could have an opportunity to put him right or turn him over his knee and spank him."

TRIES TO COMMIT SUICIDE

Drank Quantity of Toothache Medicine Containing Carbolic Acid

Because of alleged marital troubles, Mrs. Joseph Johnson, Stewart avenue and Twenty-second street, North Chicago, drank a quantity of toothache medicine containing carbolic acid Monday night in an effort to commit suicide. The efficient work of Dr. Jolly who was summoned at once saved the woman's life.

The trouble is alleged to have started when Johnson returned home from work in the hardware foundry Monday night and found that his wife had not yet prepared his supper. He is said to have upbraided her for her lack of attention and a bitter quarrel resulted.

Suddenly, without another word, Mrs. Johnson left her husband in the kitchen and went into her bedroom. Her husband saw nothing strange in this but when she did not return in a few minutes he went to see what was detaining her.

He found her lying unconscious on the bed. The empty bottle by her side told the story. Quickly he summoned Dr. Jolly and antidotes were administered. This has the effect of restoring her to consciousness and it is thought she will recover.

The Johnson family is well known in North Chicago. According to the neighbors and friends, there has been considerable friction between Mr. and Mrs. Johnson for some little time and it is said that she has intimated that she would take her own life if some better arrangement was not reached.

Just what the poison was that she took is not known, but there was a quantity of carbolic acid in it. Mrs. Johnson is said to have purchased it some time ago when she was suffering with a toothache.

ROYAL NEIGHBORS ENTERTAINED TUESDAY

Olsen Camp No. 459 R. N. A., entertained a number of guests at their hall Tuesday afternoon. The lodges of Waukegan and of Grayslake were represented, a goodly number of neighbors from each place being present.

The meeting was called to order at 2:30 o'clock and two candidates were initiated into the order with the Waukegan officers performing the ceremonies. At half past four o'clock a banquet was served and a social time was enjoyed by all.

Altogether about two hundred were in attendance and a most pleasant afternoon was passed.

CONTRACT AWARDED FOR MEMORIAL FENCE AT MILLBURN

The contract has finally been let and work is to start at once on the memorial fence which heirs of the late "Silent" James Henry Smith are to erect at Millburn cemetery in memory of the rich man's mother who died a few years ago.

This memorial fence is to cost about $5,000 and is paid out of money left by James Henry Smith for that purpose. Work is to start at once as a result of the contract having been signed this week whereby the F. P. Smith company of Chicago is to rush the work to completion as soon as possible.

CRUSHED TO DEATH BY CARS

Conductor Russell, of C. & N. W., Meets Tragic Death at Waukegan

TWO HAVE NARROW ESCAPE

Two Repair Men Under Car When Switch Engine Bumped Car from the Rear; Escape a Miracle

One man was crushed to death between two freight cars and two others had narrow escapes from being ground to pieces under the steel wheels of a freight car in the Chicago & Northwestern railroad yards, Waukegan, at 10:40 Monday morning.

The dead man: Herbert Russell—Conductor paper train. The two men who had a narrow escape from death: Andrew Herberger—Repair man, Enoc Masonick—Herberger's assistant.

Conductor Russell and the two car repair men were engaged in chaining two freight cars together when the accident occurred. The draw bar on one of the freight cars had pulled out, thus necessitating the use of the chain. Russell was standing between the two cars adjusting a coupling pin when a switch engine bumped the train at the rear. Before Russell had an opportunity to step to one side he was caught between the two cars. His body was crushed about the abdomen.

An ambulance was summoned and was driven at a high rate of speed to the Jane McAllister hospital where Russell died in ten minutes.

Herberger was working under one of the cars when the switch engine coupled onto the car at the rear of the train. His escape from death is looked upon as a miracle by witnesses.

Conductor Russell has thousands of friends in the city. He has been employed by the Northwestern for over twenty years. Of recent date he has been promoted to conductor of the paper train, which reaches Waukegan from Chicago at 3:34 a. m.

He was returning from Milwaukee, to Chicago with a light freight train when the accident occurred. The draw bar pulled out of the freight car when the train reached Waukegan.

Russell was past 45 years of age and was a resident of Chicago.

ANTIOCH COUPLE MARRIED AT WAUKEGAN

Wednesday afternoon at the court house in Waukegan Miss Reba Burnett of Antioch became the bride of Richard Sleyster, also of Antioch. The wedding plans were kept a secret and not until after the publication of the license was anyone aware that the marriage had taken place.

The bride is the youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. N. S. Burnett and had lived her entire life in this village.

The groom is not so well known here, but has made many friends during the past few months in which he has had charge of the Antioch Creamery.

Mr. and Mrs. Sleyster will make their future home in this village. The News joins in extending congratulations.

ROOSEVELT AND BRYAN

Rupert D. Griffith, Waukegan Man, Is One of the State Organizers

POSTERS BEING DISTRIBUTED

Roosevelt and Bryan Are Being Called the Great Restorationists of 1912 by Their Supporters

Rupert D. Griffith of Waukegan has been appointed as one of the state organizers of one of the "third parties" and he is advocating "Roosevelt and Bryan" as the "two great restorationists" for 1912.

Little hand bills, with this information on them have been spread widely over the city of Chicago, in theatres, and on all Chicago and Northwestern as well as other suburban train.

There has been great talk in Waukegan as well as elsewhere in regard to the condition of the two parties, through Roosevelt and Bryan, but there seems to be considerable doubt in Waukegan, as in other cities of the state, as to whether either of them would be willing to accept the vice president's chair.

There is, however, considerable talk about the two and those who support the theory, claim that Roosevelt and Bryan would be sure winners and that when Bryan is "steam-rollered" as Roosevelt was he will be ready to join the third party.

The idea has received considerable support in Chicago and the streets are being flooded with hand bills, advertising the fact that Roosevelt and Bryan are the two great restorationists.

WOMAN FOUND MONEY LEFT BY ROBBERS

While trimming a lilac bush in the north end of the park Mrs. D. A. Aynsley of Rockefeller found a couple of packages which she at first supposed some one had thrown away. She called to Will Knigge who was near and together they lifted them out and on untying them found roll after roll of pennies, over $46 in all, neatly wrapped and tied. It was part of the loot of the bank robbery on the night of the 8th of May and their weight is perhaps the reason they were not taken away. It is remarkable that this has lain so long undiscovered as there are children playing around this spot daily and many people have passed the place. Clarence Hapke had mowed the grass twice since the money was placed there and he is wondering now how he missed it.

OLD SETTLERS PICNIC AT PADDOCK'S LAKE

There is going to be one observance of Independence Day in Kenosha county this year, and that is the Kenosha Old Settlers' Club annual celebration at Paddock's Lake. The celebration is to follow the lines of other years. There will be lots of patriotism on tap, but no long winded speeches. There will be music and dancing during the afternoon and evening, and the big feature of the day will be a ball game between the Semora Grays and the Pirates of Kenosha.

The music for the day will be furnished by the Schmidt orchestra of Kenosha. There will be a big basket dinner at noon and the dining room will be in charge of competent people. Special trains will run out from Kenosha to give the people a chance to attend the celebration.

ABE CROWLEY ENTERTAINS

Guests to the Number of Forty Partake of Chicken and Fish Dinner

On Tuesday of this week a number of the friends of Abe Crowley gathered at Crowley's grove at Cross Lake, by invitation of the owner, to partake of a chicken pie and fish dinner.

About forty guests were present, coming from Waukegan, Kenosha, Milwaukee, Bristol and Antioch to attend. The day was an extremely pleasant one and the gathering was one of the most enjoyable of its kind ever held in this vicinity. The bounteous supply of good things to eat was rapidly diminished and all present declared it to be the time of their lives.

E. C. Sabin and A. N. Tiffany had a wager on the side as to whether Dr. Hershelm or John Perkins would be the winner in the chicken pie eating contest, but the result was so near a draw that the judges postponed their decision for a week. But at the close all were agreed that G. D. Thayer and John Drury had wound up as close seconds, if not in reality entitled to the honor.

About five o'clock the gathering, in which was included three persons each past eighty-three years of age, broke up, with every one hoping that a similar invitation would again be extended next year.

SLEEPS IN THE WOODS

Sixteen Year Old Girl Tells Weird Story of Night in the Woods

Rather than return to her home after work and suffer the humiliation of facing a drunken father little Frances Hudryk, of North Chicago, went into the woods west of the village Monday night and used the trunk of an old tree as a pillow.

The 16 year old girl was not afraid. The stars were her only companion. She slept well. Not in months she claims, has she enjoyed such a refreshing sleep.

She awoke with the birds at 4:15 and went to her work at the wrapper factory in Waukegan. The superintendent at the factory noticed the wrinkled condition of her clothing and asked where she had been.

Between sobs the girl told this story: "I slept in the woods last night. I was afraid to go home. I had trouble with my parents. I have not had any thing to eat today, but I think I can work."

The superintendent notified Chief Tyrrel of the Waukegan police force. Chief Tyrrel notified Chief Wier of North Chicago.

Chief Wier came to Waukegan at an early hour and took the girl to North Chicago. He visited her parents' home but was unable to ascertain any facts in the case, because the girl's mother could not speak the English language.

"I think it is a case of too much liquor in the home" said Chief Wier.

FLOATING CORPSE FOUND AT TWIN LAKES

Carl Guedel, a Chicago hotel proprietor, committed suicide by drowning at Twin Lakes last Friday and the body was found floating on the surface of the lake near Haegle ice house Monday evening by two boys who were out fishing.

Guedel was 52 years old and was proprietor of the Milwaukee hotel on North Clark street, Chicago. He came out from the city Wednesday of last week and registered at the Waldeck. Thursday he settled his bill with Mr. Cappel, proprietor of the hotel, and the following morning left the place. This was the last seen of him until the dead body was found Monday evening by two boys, aged 7 and 9 years, sons of John Miller, foreman at the Haegle ice house.

The boys were out fishing and about sundown they sighted the body. The grim spectacle of a corpse floating in the water frightened them and they immediately returned to shore and informed their father of the find. He with another employee of the Haegle plant rowed out in to the lake and brought the body to shore.

Why, the Ideal. "I'm surprised at your giving that small, hot bedroom I slept in to a relative," snuffed her maiden aunt, as she entered the breakfast room. "You are!" answered Mrs. Randall. "Why, aunties, we've even given that room to servants."—Life.

CANADIAN SEEKS THE RACE TRACK

Talk at Libertyville is Reported Sale of One Mile Track to R. J. MacKenzie

THE SALE IS NOT DENIED

MacKenzie Recently Purchased the Pleasanton, California, Course, and Has a Stable at Libertyville

Negotiation for the sale of America's fastest one mile track—Libertyville—by F. E. March to R. J. MacKenzie, the millionaire race track king of Canada are pending.

A report reached Libertyville Wednesday afternoon that the track had been sold to Mr. MacKenzie.

Mrs. March claims her husband has not sold the track, but when asked if negotiations were in progress began to be excused from answering and referred the reporter to her husband.

Otto Hanson of Milwaukee who holds an interest in the track, was located, over the long distance telephone and said no legal transfer had yet been made.

No transfer has been filed in the office of the recorder of deeds, but it is reported that an abstract of title on the property was recently made.

The Libertyville track is recognized by horsemen as one of the fastest tracks in America. The track was built for the Chicago & Milwaukee Electric Railroad years ago, and was lately purchased by Mr. March and others when the railroad was thrown into the hands of a receiver.

Should MacKenzie gain control of the property within a few weeks it is believed that an effort will be made to stage a number of races at the track in August.

Wednesday a number of the fastest horses on the America turf are in training at Libertyville.

Tuesday the track record for trotting was set by "Dock" MacMahon behind "Brace Girlie" in 2:09. The fastest pacing miles of the day were made by "Lassie Lee" in 2:08; "Jim Logan" in 2:10 and "Our Colonel" in 2:11.

The MacKenzie stage did not work anything Tuesday. MacKenzie is one of the bright stars of the America turf and has fully twenty-five head at his stable in Libertyville Wednesday.

If he gains control of the big track, he will, it is reported, bring a number of horses to Libertyville from the California tracks.

ELGIN BUTTER IN 1911 WORTH FIFTEEN MILLIONS

That the butter produced in the Elgin dairy district during the year of 1911 was valued at more than fifteen million dollars is a statement contained in the annual report of the Elgin board of trade, issued Monday.

The average price of butter during 1911, however, was three cents less than in 1910, and despite the fact that the Elgin district produced two millions more pounds in 1911, the product was valued a million dollars less than the output in 1910.

The total output of the district in 1910 was 54,185,009 pounds and last year the output reached 56,054,606 pounds. The average price of butter in 1911 was 26.56 cents and in 1910, 29.08 cents. At these average prices the value of the butter produced in 1910 was $16,147,132.68 and last year's output was valued at $15,100,583.55.

The highest price butter reached in 1911 was 30 cents per pound. This was touched December 4, 23 and 30. The lowest price was 21 cents, which was reached April 3, 10 and 17, and May 15 and 22. In 1910 the highest price reached was 30 cents, January 8, 10 and 17. The lowest price was 27 cents, touched May 9 and 16, June 6, 13 and 10 and July 25.

SENTENCE COMPERS

WITH MORRISON AND MITCHELL,
LABOR LEADERS, HELD GUILTY OF CONTEMPT.

ALL GET TERMS IN PRISON

Supreme Court of District of Columbia
Orders Men to Jail in Connection
With Injunction in the Buck's Stove Case.

Washington, June 26.—Samuel Gompers, Frank Morrison and John Mitchell, chief officers of the American Federation of Labor, were on Monday held guilty of contempt of court by the supreme court of the District of Columbia in connection with a court's injunction in the Buck's stove and range boycott case. Gompers was given one year, Mitchell nine months and Morrison six months.

They will attempt to appeal again to the Supreme court of the United States, which reversed their former conviction.

Justice Daniel Thew Wright announced the decision of the court. It covered seventy-two closely typewritten pages and took about two hours to read.

Bondsmen were on hand and attorneys for the labor men gave notice of an intention to file an appeal to have the Supreme court review the judgment. In its previous review of the case the Supreme court reversed the conviction on the ground that the contempt proceedings had been improperly instituted. New proceedings were at once begun. The sentences under the first conviction were Gompers one year, Morrison nine months, Mitchell six months.

After Gompers had been sentenced he attacked the decision, declaring that while "Justice Wright lives in our time, his decision and sentences disclose a mental concept of more than two centuries ago, when the workman was either a slave or a serf.

The trouble took place after the company announced that it would take back those of the men who wished to resume work at the old wage scale. About 600 accepted the offer and took their places Monday morning. Monday afternoon on their return from lunch they were attacked by a mob.

The hold-up occurred near Fort Bell, Tex. What was in the pouch is not known, apparently, except to the robber. A posse is after him.

WILLIAM HOWARD TAFT

TAFT AND SHERMAN CHOSEN BY REPUBLICAN CONVENTION

Greatest Battle in History of American Politics Results in Victory for President—Wins on First Ballot with 561 Votes—Roosevelt Men Refuse to Vote.

For President.
WILLIAM H. TAFT.
For Vice-President.
JAMES S. SHERMAN.

Chicago, June 24.—These are the standard-bearers selected by the Republican national convention to lead the presidential campaign of 1912.

After five days and nights of the bitterest fighting in the history of American politics, in which the greatest masters of political strategy in the ranks of the party were pitted against each other and every trick and maneuver known to the game were resorted to in an endeavor to wrest a victory from their opponents, it all ended in the choice of the man who led the party in the last national campaign and who are now occupying the highest offices in the land as the choice of a majority of the American people, to go before the public as candidates for a second term.

Taft's Name Presented.
President Taft's name was presented to the convention by Harding of Ohio, and the nomination was seconded by John Wanamaker of Philadelphia and Nicholas Murray Butler of New York.

La Follette was the only other candidate presented to the convention, Colonel Roosevelt, early in the afternoon expressing the desire that his name be not presented in the convention, and asking his friends to refrain from voting in the convention. The convention sat in comparative quiet through the nominating speeches. The vigorous efforts of enthusiasts to start demonstrations for their favorites met with only moderate success. The galleries were shouted out and the delegates were tired and wanted to get home. The result was foregone.

Cheering Is Started.
When the roll call started with Alabama and it threw its strength to Taft a burst of cheering started. It was settled that the Taft forces would stand firm, just as they had stood from the time they selected Senator Root as temporary chairman through the bitter days of the convention under the assaults of the Roosevelt forces. The Taft forces had all their old strength and a few hand wagon climbers made it even larger.

Pandemonium broke loose when the result was announced. The galleries rocked back and forth as if they would swell over and on top of the delegates on the floor. The band went through the motions of playing, but no one could hear it. Finally it subsided and the thousands started to crowd out of the building.

The calling of the roll was filled with exciting incidents.

Vice-President Next.
After the tumult that followed the nomination of Taft had worn itself out, Chairman Root announced that nominations for vice-president were in order. J. V. O'Leary of New York was recognized and in a short speech presented the name of James S. Sherman to succeed himself. The nomination was seconded by representatives from several states.

Boies Penrose' name was next presented by a delegate from Pennsylvania, but received no second, nor did Penrose receive any votes.

Other candidates presented to the convention in brief speeches were Senator Borah, C. E. Merriam, Gillette, Senator Beveridge and Governor Hadley.

Sherman Is Winner.
The roll call was rushed through with the greatest expedition, Sherman winning on the first ballot. The vote:

Sherman 597
Borah 21
Merriam 20
Gillette 1
Beveridge 2
Hadley 14
Absent 71
Not voting 352

Thus ended a convention that will go down in history as the most remarkable in history. The weary delegates, exhausted with long hours of strain and excitement, thankful that at last it was all over, broke into wild cheers and the convention wound up amid scenes of great excitement and confusion.

Quelled by Police.
Roosevelt delegates rioted for nearly a half hour in the Republican national convention as the temporary organization controlled by the Taft machine was made the permanent organization. Their riotous demonstrations, quelled by the police, but served to delay the prepared action of the steam roller.

The reports, majority and minority, of the rules committee were tabled and the convention proceeded under the old rules.

Henry J. Allen, Kansas progressive, read Colonel Roosevelt's two condemnatory statements of the day, eliciting some by play and a few cheers from the floor.

Then Charles Warren Fairbanks began the reading of the report of the resolutions committee, the platform, a Taft platform. Argument at considerable length on the platform followed.

Wisconsin and North Dakota members of the resolutions committee, representing Senator La Follette, offered a minority report, almost as long as the one read by Mr. Fairbanks, which incorporated the views of the Wisconsin senator on public questions.

At 5:30 the platform was declared adopted by Chairman Elihu Root. The vote stood:

Not voting 343
Against 53
Absent 10
For 566

The La Follette platform had previously been tabled.

There was an outburst of cheering when the total Roosevelt strength was announced as 343, the number of delegates not voting, but a greater outburst followed the announcement of 566 votes yes. The nays were 53, and 16 were absent.

No Nomination for Cummins.
Immediately Chairman Root announced a call of the roll of the states for nominations. Alabama was passed. Arizona was silent. Down the list silence followed the calling of each state until Ohio was reached. A cheer greeted the state and Warren G. Harding arose to place President Taft in nomination.

Then it was discovered Iowa had forgotten to nominate Cummins, and Root ordered that the state be called again. Silence greeted the second call, for the Iowans had decided not to nominate Cummins, but to vote for him.

Then Ohio was called again, and Harding took the platform, greeted by scattered cheers, to nominate Taft.

Day of Battle.

Friday was a day of excitement and constant fighting between the Taft and Roosevelt forces on the floor of the Republican convention. A partial report from the committee on credentials was the cause of the sanguinary conflict.

During the day four roll calls were taken which furnished some little gleam of hope for both sides. On one ballot the Taft men polled the highest vote yet recorded for them, 605. A little later whatever significance might have been attached to that vote was somewhat discounted when the Roosevelt adherents mustered a strength of 529, which was the high mark so far for the colonel's side.

The Roll Calls.

The roll calls were occasioned by majority and minority reports from the credentials committee on the seating of contested delegates in the Ninth Alabama district. The roll call was on a motion to table Governor Hadley's resolution that contested delegates be not allowed to vote on the reports. This carried by a vote of 569 to 499—10 not voting.

A motion made at once following, to substitute the minority report seating the Roosevelt men, against the majority's steam roller candidates was lost by a vote of 404 to 505. In the second vote eight Idaho and twenty-five Wisconsin votes went with the Taft men. These states explained that as members of their delegations they desired to support that committee. They denied they had bolted to the Taft side on any other issue.

The third ballot was on the Arizona contest case. The result was 564 to 497.

The fourth vote was on the California case. This resulted, 542 to 529, the highest vote yet mustered by the Roosevelt men.

Governor Horace S. Hadley of Missouri swept the Republican convention off its feet Wednesday afternoon and, without having uttered a word, became the hero of a demonstration which will hold a permanent place among the spectacular events in the history of the nation.

This and a test vote which showed that the Taft following is holding its own were the two great features of the second day's session.

When Governor Hadley appeared on the floor to close the debate on his resolution to seat the Roosevelt delegates who had been ousted by the national committee the demonstration unexpectedly broke loose.

It was nearly an hour from the time the demonstration started, before the tumult had sufficiently subsided to enable the convention to resume business.

Root Named Chairman.

Senator Elihu Root of New York was elected temporary chairman of the Republican convention Tuesday afternoon amid scenes of great disorder, thus scoring an important victory for the Taft forces.

The Roosevelt men voted for Gov. Francis E. McGovern of Wisconsin.

With the completion of the long roll call, practically every minute of which had been strenuously contested by the Roosevelt people, led by Governor Hadley, Senator Flinn and Mr. Hueser, Senator Root was given an ovation in which the Roosevelt delegates took part. At 6:30 he began the delivery of his speech, and concluded until seven o'clock.

VOTE THAT GAVE TAFT THE VICTORY.

That Was Different.

A stern father who had repeatedly told a young man who was paying his addresses to his daughter not to visit the house again without his permission, which he never intended to give, was surprised when he answered a ring at the doorbell late one evening to see the young man waiting on the step.

"Sir," said he in anger, "didn't I tell you not to call again, eh, sir?"

"Yes," said the young man. "I know, but I didn't call to see your daughter. I came on behalf of our firm about that little bill."

"Oh—er—er—" stammered the stern father, "call again, will you?"

One Honest Chauffeur.

Arriving by train at the Gare de l'Est, the other evening, a young Parisian took a taxicab home, and left in it a satchel containing more than $20,000 in bank notes, a diamond rivière worth $10,000, and a pendant valued at $3,000, among other pieces of jewelry. The taxicab driver found the satchel, but did not open it. The following day as he was about to bring it to the local police station the wallet opened and its contents poured out in a glittering stream before his eyes. The chauffeur drove straight to the police and handed over his find, even making difficulties about revealing his name. The owner was so delighted to get his notes and jewels back again that he gave the honest cabman $200.

COL. ROOSEVELT TO HEAD A NEW POLITICAL PARTY

Has Accepted Tentative Nomination Provided the Test He Demanded Shows Sentiment for Call—His Views Outlined in Speech to His Followers.

Chicago, June 25.—The first steps in the organization of a new political party under the leadership of Col. Theodore Roosevelt were taken Saturday night in Orchestra hall in this city, when a committee was named to notify the colonel and take care of other work in connection with the organization of the new party.

Governor Johnson of California, who named the committee, put upon its leaders of national prominence. It represented twenty-one states. The committee consisted of:

Comptroller W. A. Prendergast of New York, Meyer Lissner of California, former Congressman Richmond Pearson of North Carolina, Frank Knox of Michigan, Matthew Hale of Massachusetts, A. R. Garfield of Ohio, David Browning of Kentucky, Everard Blomer Jr. of Utah, Walter Thompson of Vermont, Judge Oscar R. Handley of Alabama, Judge Ben B. Lindsey of Colorado, Andrew Hahn of Minnesota, Judge Stevens of Iowa, Judge Lowder of North Dakota, William Allen White of Kansas, John C. O'Grady of Arizona, ex-Governor John Franklin Fort of New Jersey, Colonel E. C. Carrington of Maryland, Pearl Wright of Louisiana, Lorenzo Dow of Washington, Walter Clyde Jones of Illinois, Frank Frantz of Oklahoma.

Details Not Attempted.

All the details of the organization were not attempted at the time. Some had already been arranged for before the meeting.

At this gathering it was decided that the new political party should attempt to seize possession of the regular party machinery in the state in which it was in control.

The electors nominated in these states and the men who are still to be named as electors in such states as Pennsylvania, where the conventions have taken recesses, will be asked to declare that they will support Roosevelt and not Taft if elected.

In other states it is proposed to fight the regular organization, name state and county tickets and sweep the organizations out of existence.

Illinois to Start Ball.

Illinois, however, is to start the organization ball rolling. It was announced by J. Medill McCormick that a call for a state convention in Illinois would be issued at once.

Governor Johnson described the campaign of Colonel Roosevelt against the bosses and declared that the delegates assembled proposed "to see that Mr. Roosevelt gets his reward."

Resolutions Are Read.

He then introduced Senator Clapp of Minnesota, who read the resolution nominating Colonel Roosevelt. It was adopted with a cheer.

Mr. Prendergast then made the nominating speech.

Resuming his speech, Mr. Prendergast described some of the details of the Republican convention and pictured some of the Republican leaders in the convention.

Dean Lewis followed Mr. Prender-

by informal conferences in which Colonel Roosevelt discussed the situation with various leaders of the new party that sprang into being at the close of the Republican national convention Saturday night. Senator Joseph M. Dixon, field general of the Roosevelt forces in the convention fight, talked with his chief and emerged from the conference room erect and smiling.

Gov. Hiram W. Johnson of California, on whom rests a part of the responsibility of the appointment of the committee of seven, which will map out the first chart for the voyage of the new party, was the next to confer with the colonel.

James R. Garfield of Ohio and Clifford Pinchot, former chief forester, also discussed affairs with Colonel Roosevelt.

Leaves for Oyster Bay.

Mr. Roosevelt left for Oyster Bay Monday afternoon for a two weeks' rest. His leave-taking was quiet and but a few people in Chicago were aware the colonel intended to take his departure for his home.

In a formal statement issued at the last moment from the rooms in which he conducted his campaign at the Congress hotel, Colonel Roosevelt said:

"I shall not depart from what I said last Saturday night. I shall accept the Progressive nomination on a Progressive platform, and I shall fight the battle to a finish."

"We are in the ring to stay! We will win! Goodbye!"

As the machine in which he rode with Mrs. Roosevelt, James R. Garfield and Alexander H. Revell pulled away from the scene of his recent activities, the colonel turned half around and waved his hat at his late headquarters in the hotel.

CLAIMS NEED OF NEW PARTY

Frank A. Munsey, Considered Roosevelt's Chief Adviser, Is Bitter Over Situation.

Philadelphia, June 25.—Frank A. Munsey, chief adviser to Roosevelt, in a long editorial under his own name printed in the Philadelphia Times, a newspaper owned by him, gives his views of the convention and of the new Roosevelt party to be formed. In part he says:

"There will be no further protest on the part of the Roosevelt forces, no further appeal to reason and justice on the part of the Roosevelt forces. Taft's nomination will be the culminating act, the closing scene in this historic drama. It is sad, but perhaps a natural ending to a party organization as great or the greatest the world has ever known. But the party has fallen into evil hands, is dominated by political bosses, by special interests."

"The New York delegation, with its solid body of seventy-five votes controlled by Barnes, a great, strong, rugged figure, defiant, clear-headed, conscientious, holds the center of the stage. Most conspicuous among its members are Barnes himself, Senator Root, Nicholas Murray Butler and former Senator Dewey, who, with their associates, in their acts and their votes, exercise no more individuality, no more freedom of thought than grindstones. For men of culture and education like these, wealthy, influential, occupying commanding positions, to make themselves mere cogwheels in a great machine is both pitiable and astounding."

"Out of this defiant and unyielding attitude of the Old Guard has been born a new party—a party of the people, a party in sympathy with the people and a party which is to this period what the Republican party was to the period of 1860. This new party is not the sudden caprice of the moment, nor the result of disappointment and bitterness. It merely is the amalgamation and using of great, deep, undying forces that have for years been struggling to the surface against tremendous odds and tremendous opposition. Nothing could longer postpone the inevitable. The hour has come, and, fight as people will fight against the severance of old ties and associations, the commanding appeal of the new has compelled the repudiation of the old."

"Now that the decision is reached, now that the die has been cast, the disappointment and sorrow of the Progressives have given place to hope, to good cheer and to the determination to get busy and do things. The Progressive party will be a young man's party, a party of the present and the future, not of the past. It will be progressive in the upbuilding of industry and commerce; it will be constructive, not destructive; it will be progressive in all that is sane and sound and substantial and right and just."

Resolution nominating, Colonel Roosevelt contained the following declarations:

"We, delegates and alternates to the Republican national convention, representing a clear majority of the voters of the Republican party in the nation, and representing a clear majority of delegates and alternates legally elected to the convention in meeting assembled make the following declaration:

"We were sent to this convention bearing the most specific instructions to place Theodore Roosevelt in nomination as the candidate of our party for president, and we therefore deem it to be our duty to carry out those instructions in the only practical and feasible way remaining open to us. Therefore, be it

"Resolved, that we, representing the majority of the voters of the Republican party and of the delegates and alternates legally elected to the national Republican convention, in compliance with our instructions from the party voters, hereby nominate Theodore Roosevelt as the candidate of our party for the office of president of the United States; and we call upon him to accept such nomination in compliance with the will of party voters; and be it further

"Resolved, that a committee be appointed by the chair to forthwith notify Colonel Roosevelt of the action here taken, and request him to appear before us in this hall as soon as convenient."

Monday Passed Informally.

There was no formal meeting of the Roosevelt men Monday and the morning in the headquarters was marked by informal conferences in which Colonel Roosevelt discussed the situation with various leaders of the new party that sprang into being at the close of the Republican national convention Saturday night.

Senator Joseph M. Dixon, field general of the Roosevelt forces in the convention fight, talked with his chief and emerged from the conference room erect and smiling.

PROMINENT DEMOCRATS AT BALTIMORE

Baltimore, today, has within its city limits almost every Democrat in the country of any prominence. The above picture shows five well known Democrats now attending the convention going for a ride. Reading from right to left they are: Norman E. Mack, chairman of the Democratic national committee; Edwin O. Wood, national committeeman from Michigan; Urey Woodson of Kentucky, secretary of the national committee; Robert Crain, chairman of the Baltimore committee, and James W. Reilly.

DEMOCRATS OPEN FIRST SESSION

Big National Meet Called to Order by Chairman Mack in City of Baltimore.

FIGHT ON PARKER STARTED

Question of Who Shall Be Temporary Gavel Wielder of Body Mooted One—Bryan Takes Leading Part.

Baltimore, Md., June 25.—The Democratic national convention was called to order at noon today by Norman E. Mack, chairman of the Democratic national committee in the Fifth Regiment armory, which has been magnificently arranged by the reception committee.

The opening prayer was offered by His Eminence Cardinal Gibbons. The seating capacity of the hall is 15,000, and every seat was filled long before the fall of the chairman's gavel.

Following the invocation Chairman Mack made the announcement that Alton B. Parker of New York had been chosen by the national committee to preside during the temporary organization of the convention, and the looked for fight on behalf of those opposed to him, under the leadership of William J. Bryan, was on.

National Committee Acts.

The national committee had ratified the selection by its subcommittee of arrangements of Judge Alton B. Parker for temporary chairman of the convention. Two other candidates were voted on, Senator-elect Otis James of Kentucky and Senator O'Grady of New York. The vote stood Parker 31, James 20, O'Grady 2.

The vote by states follows: For Parker—Alabama, Arizona, Arkansas, California, Connecticut, Florida, Georgia, Idaho, Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Kentucky, Maine, Maryland, Michigan, Mississippi, Montana, New Hampshire, New York, Oklahoma, Pennsylvania, Rhode Island, Tennessee, Texas, Vermont, Virginia, Alaska, Philippines, District Columbia, Hawaii and Porto Rico—31.

For James—Colorado, Delaware, Kansas, Louisiana, Minnesota, Missouri, Nebraska, Nevada, New Mexico, New Jersey, North Carolina, North Dakota, Ohio, Oregon, South Carolina, South Dakota, Utah, Washington, Wisconsin and Wyoming—20.

For O'Grady—Massachusetts and West Virginia—2.

Contests Are Taken Up.

Immediately following the vote on the temporary chairman, the Democratic national committee commenced the hearing of the contests in Illinois, Ohio, Rhode Island and the District of Columbia. Each of the contests was ordered heard by a separate subcommittee.

In every case the contestants won out. In Rhode Island the Greene delegates retained their seats; in Alaska, A. J. Daily retained his. In the District of Columbia, where three factions warred, Edward Newman was defeated. In the South Dakota contest ten delegates, Wilson men and contestees, were seated, and in the Philippine contest, the Texas contest, and the Vermont result was the same.

In the Porto Rican quarrel a compromise was reached by seating the six contesting delegates and giving half a vote to each. The committee upheld the regular Illinois delegates and seated the 26 members, whose places were contested by the Carter Harrison faction.

"Charlie" White of New York, who is known as a referee of prize fights, is chief doorkeeper at the armory for the convention. Thomas J. Torrey, also of New York, is his assistant.

REFLECTIONS OF THE BIG DEMOCRATIC MEET

Baltimore, June 25.—"This," said J. Hamilton Lewis of Chicago, "is what I like." He gave his cane a quick swing, gave his head a quick toss, and then put a smile through his bushy pink whiskers. "How charming is this old city! This is one of the most beautiful spots in the world."

He was standing in Mount Vernon place. He threw away his cigar and stood gazing slowly from one house to another. So deeply did the scene impress him that he sighed before he spoke again.

"I love this old town," he said fervently. "There is no place in the world more charming. Last June I was in Spain. I rambled here and there. There was rupture in the air. And, of course, I was in Paris, London, and all around. I have been around downtown here. But every time I come here I see some new sign of progress, but what I like best of all is your Mount Vernon square. It is so beautiful and so soothing here. When I am worried, weary of politics, or hardened with other cares, I think of this place. I know Baltimoreans love this spot. What I like best in Baltimoreans is the fact that they do not allow this place to be desecrated."

Mayors are all around the place. No less than three of them were there as spectators, while Charles F. Murphy, the Tammany boss, was eating at the Emerson. There was J. Harry, of course, and then there was Mayor Whittepp of Jersey City, with Teutonic admirers all about him, and then Thomas P. Doudy of Ronceverte, W. Va., a former Baltimorean, who was made mayor shortly after his arrival in that hospitable township.

One of the jolliest mayors here is Robert Speer of Denver, the convention host four years ago. John R. Burton, assistant secretary of the national committee, had the honor of giving him the first screed when he got here.

Mrs. Nicholas Longworth, who was Miss Alice Roosevelt, daughter of Col. Roosevelt, arrived in Baltimore on Monday. With her was Mrs. Medill McCormick, a member of the celebrated McCormick family of Chicago. Mrs. Longworth has many friends in Baltimore and took an active part in the social activities of the convention. Mr. and Mrs. Longworth spent the first part of their honeymoon at the country place of John R. McLean, near Washington. Mrs. Longworth is a wholesome, hearty American woman, attractive, with a frankness and ease of manner which have made her popular wherever she is known, and a certain individuality which would distinguish her even if she were not the daughter of Colonel Roosevelt.

Full of tags indicating that it had been around the world, a paper-mache "hound dog" was received at Clark headquarters. The express tags literally cover the dog.

It was made at Bangor, Me., and adorned a mantelpiece in comfort until its owner heard the hound song. A copy of the song and the dog then were sent to a friend in Boston and the dog started on its globe-trotting.

From Boston it went to Dresden, then to Vienna, Constantinople, Bombay, Canton and Manila. The next stop was in London, and then it started to Peru and then to Major General O'Reilly in the Philippines, who sent it to a naval colleague at Washington.

"Tom Taggart's the pleasantest fellow you ever saw," said a man from Indiana. "He's always the soul of politeness, always courteous and affable, and is never apparently flustered. He will stop and talk with anybody. But if you ask the newspaper men you'll find that they rarely get any real news from Tom. He's got the art of talking without saying anything down to a fine art."

The three Jays—J. Harry Covington, J. Walter Smith and J. Fred C. Talbot—sat on a settee in the Belvedere, and discussed the world in general while the reporters buzzed around trying to catch a word. Just then J. "Ham" Lewis of Chicago passed by and greeted all three with the elaborately gracious bow which his admirers attribute to his South Carolina origin.

The Georgia and Florida delegations were accompanied by marching clubs of about 500 men each, and that of Alabama by one of 1,000. All three were accompanied by bands.

The members of the British embassy at Washington are all in the city during the convention.

Back of the delegates are 1,200 more chairs for the alternates.

The seating arrangement is divided into seventy-six sections, forty-nine on the floor, the others in the balconies. On the floor are 10,661 chairs and 4,408 chairs are in the balconies. The two main balconies are 200 feet long and fifty-two feet deep.

There are five entrances in addition to thirteen exits, and the great hall can be emptied in a few minutes.

To make the necessary stands and galleries, to say nothing of fitting up more than two score committee rooms, more than 5,000,000 feet of lumber was used, and $35,000 was spent by Maryland to fit the hall for the convention, including the building of the stands, balconies, committee rooms and the decorating.

The decorations alone cost $7,000, and fourteen men and six seamstresses were busy for a month putting together and hanging the 34,000 yards of crease, gold and white bunting, 6,000 yards of red, white and blue bunting, 1,000 rosettes and 500 flags that beautify the interior.

One of the most important caucuses was that of the New York delegation at state headquarters in a hotel here. The New York progressives assert they have from fifteen to twenty votes among the ninety state votes cast in the convention, but no question was raised about the binding force of the unit rule.

HOME POOR PLACE TO WORK

Best. Whenever Possible, That Man Should Be Away from the House in Daytime.

The man of the house should not be the man in the house all day long. If it can be helped. If he be an artist with a studio at home, a minister with a study at the top of the house, a physician with office hours, or any other man who is accustomed to carry on his work at home, the household accommodates itself to him, and in a sense ignores his presence. It is true that he is constantly subject to interruptions when he works at home, his wife softly opening the door to say, "The milkman has called for his bill, and cannot make change," or "Somebody has asked for you at the door. Will you not go down and see him?" or "Do pardon me for breaking in upon your work, but Aunt Jennie has just telephoned that she is coming to luncheon. Won't you step over to the butcher's and get a porterhouse steak?"

It is not quite ideal for the man of the house to do his work at home. For his personal convenience and comfort it is preferable that he should do it elsewhere. The temptation to run in upon him, to read a letter, tell a bit of news or ask advice, is too great for the average woman to overcome. Also, he gains something in the estimation of the family by going away in the morning and returning at night, while for himself there is the manifest advantage of a charming and restful change of scene when he steps within his front door to be stormed upon with kisses by the children and welcomed by his true comrade and partner on the road—Woman's Home Companion.

PECULIAR PRAYER TO COURT

Error of Stenographer Responsible for a Few More Gray Hairs in Head of Lawyer.

"They say that a lawyer has been saved by his stenographer," said an attorney, at a recent lecture. "That is true, undoubtedly, because a lawyer's stenographer, who is observing, gets many points of law out of her work."

"But there is another side to it that must not be overlooked, and that is the mistakes that a lawyer's stenographer makes. The law terms are so technical that it is not within reason to expect the stenographer to get everything exactly right.

"One of the most amusing errors that I have ever heard of in connection with stenographic errors, if I may call it that, occurred in a certain law office the other day. The case was a divorce action, in which the plaintiff alleged cruel and inhuman treatment. 'Plaintiff, being a woman with all the common law disabilities, prayed the court for temporary alimony and suit money.' The prayer was dictated to the stenographer and she wrote it out and mailed it to the court.

"Shortly afterward, the lawyer chanced to read a copy and found to his horror that the stenographer had made the prayer one for alimony and suit money."

Thick.
"How far is it to the next town?" inquired the traveler in the mud bespattered buggy.

"'Bout ten mile, mister," said the farmer by the roadside.

"Long miles, too, I suppose."

"No, sir, they're not so very long, but you'll find them pretty blamed thick."

When Child is Restless.
The principal cause of restlessness and sleeplessness in children is indigestion, usually brought on by unsuitable food, overfeeding or irregular meal hours.

If a child cries a great deal, is restless and loses sleep, look to the food and the time at which it is given.

Another cause of sleeplessness which is frequently overlooked is too much light in the room. It is natural to sleep in the dark, and it is particularly desirable that children should do so, for they are very sensitive to all impressions.

The tender eyes and brain need the complete rest and relaxation that darkness permits. In spring and summer, when the sun rises at five o'clock or earlier, children will wake unless the room is kept darkened.

A green-blind is best for this purpose, and it is advisable to use it in the child's bedroom if nowhere else.

Discontent.
We are never more discontented with others than we are discontented with ourselves. The consciousness of wrongdoing makes us irritable, and our heart, in its cunning, quarrels with what is outside it, in order that it may deafen the clamor within.—H. F. Amiel.

Man First Carved Woman.
A piece of stone, 18 inches high, on which is roughly cut in bas-relief the figure of a woman, is the oldest known representation of the human form. It was discovered by Dr. L. L. L. in excavations in the grottoes of Laussel, France, and is thought to be 30,000 years old. Scientists believe that it came between the ages of the mammoth and the reindeer, when the artist would have used sharpened flints as tools.

Make No Excuses.

We can wrest success from any failure and take from it much of the sting when we frankly admit that it was our fault, and that we have no excuse to offer, while at the same time we express our purpose not to fail in that way again. The world is quick to forgive the man who does not ask to be excused. God can forgive us on no other terms; and God's forgiveness is the only way to assured victory over failure.—The Sunday School Times.

SYNOPSIS.

Elam Harnish, known all through Alaska as "Burning Daylight," celebrates his 40th birthday with a crowd of miners at the Circle City Tivoli. The dance leads to heavy gambling, in which over $100,000 is staked. Harnish loses his money and his mine but wins the mail contract. His start on his mail trip with dogs and sledges, telling his friends that he will be in the big Yukon gold strike at the start. Burning Daylight makes a sensational appearance at the Tivoli and is now ready to join his friends in a dash to the new gold fields. Deciding that gold will be worth its weight in gold, but when he arrives with his four dogs and the big fat sleds. A comrade discovers gold and Daylight reaps a rich harvest. He goes to Dawson, becomes the most prominent figure in the Klondike and defeats a combination of capitalists in a vast mining deal. He returns to civilization, and amid the bewildering complications of high finance, Daylight finds that he has been led to invest his eleven millions in a manipulated scheme. He goes to New York, and confronting his disloyal partners with a revolver, he threatens to kill them if his money is not returned. They are cowed, return their securities and Harnish goes back to San Francisco where he meets his fate in Dede Mason, a pretty stenographer. He makes large investments and gets into the political ring. For a rest he goes to the country. Daylight goes deeper into high finance in San Francisco, but often the longing for the simple life nearly overcomes him. Dede Mason buys a horse and Daylight meets her in her saddle trips. One day he asks Dede to go with him on one more ride, his purpose being to ask her to marry him, and they canter away, she trying to analyze her feelings.

CHAPTER XV.—Continued.

But through it all ran the golden thread of love. At first he had been content just to ride with Dede, and to be on comradely terms with her; but the desire and the need for her increased. The more he knew of her, the higher was his appraisal. Had she been reserved and haughty with him, or been merely a giggling, stammering creature of a woman, it would have been different. Instead, she amazed him with her simplicity and wholesomeness, with her great store of comradeliness. The latter was the unexpected. He had never looked upon woman in that way. Woman, the toy; woman, the harp; woman, the necessary wife and mother of the race's offspring—all this had been his expectation and understanding of woman. But woman, the comrade and playfellow and joyfellow—this was what Dede had surprised him in. And the more she became worth while, the more ardently his love burned, unconsciously shading his voice with caresses, and with equal unconsciousness flaring up signal fires in his eyes. Nor was she blind to it, yet, like many women before her, she thought to play with the pretty fire and escape the consequent conflagration.

"Winter will soon be coming on," she said regretfully and with provocation, one day, "and then there won't be any more riding."

"But I must see you in the winter just the same," he cried hastily. She shook her head.

"I've been pretty good," he declared. "I leave it to you if I haven't. It's been pretty hard, too. I can tell you. You just think it over. Not once have I said a word about love to you, and me loving you all the time. That's going some for a man that's used to having his own way. I'm somewhat of a rasher when it comes to traveling. I reckon I'd rush God Almighty if it came to a race over the ice. And yet I didn't rush you. I guess this fact is an indication of how much I do love you. Of course I want you to marry me. Have I said a word about it, though? Nary a chirp, nary a flutter. I've been quiet and good, though it's almost made me sick at times, this keeping quiet. I haven't asked you to marry me. I'm not asking you now. Oh, not but what you satisfy me. I sure know you're the wife for me. But how about myself? Do you know me well enough to know your own mind? He shrugged his shoulders. "I don't know, and I ain't going to take chances on it now. You've got to know for sure whether you think you could go along with me or not, and I'm playing a slow conservative game. I ain't a-going to lose for overlooking my hand."

This was love-making of a sort beyond Dede's experience. Nor had she ever heard of anything like it.

"So you see," he urged, "just for a square deal, we've got to see some more of each other this winter. Most likely your mind ain't made up yet."

"But it is," she interrupted. "I wouldn't dare permit myself to care for you. Happiness, for me, would not lie that way. I like you, Mr. Harnish, and all that, but it can never be more than that."

"It's because you don't like my way of living," he charged, thinking in his own mind of the sensational joy-rides and general profligacy with which the newspapers had credited him—thinking this, and wondering whether or not, in maiden modesty, she would disclaim knowledge of it.

To his surprise, her answer was flat and uncompromising.

"No, I don't."

"I know I've been brazen on some of those rides that got into the papers," he began his defence, "and that I've been travelling with a lively crowd—" "I don't mean that," she said, "though I know about it, too, and can't say that I like it. But it is your life in general, your business. There are women in the world who could marry a man like you and be happy, but I couldn't. And the more I cared for such a man, the more unhappy I should be. You see, my unhappiness, in turn, would tend to make him unhappy. I should make a mistake, and he would make an equal mistake, though his would not be so hard on him because he would still have his business."

"Business!" Daylight gasped. "What's wrong with my business? I play fair and square. There's nothing underhand about it, which can't be said of most businesses, whether of the big corporations or of the cheating, lying, little corner-grocerymen. I play the straight rules of the game, and I don't have to lie or cheat or break my word."

"Don't you see," he went on, "the whole game is a gamble. Everybody gambles in one way or another. The farmer gambles against the weather and the market on his crops. So does the United States Steel Corporation. The business of lots of men is straight robbery of the poor people. But I've never made that my business. You know that. I've always gone after the robbers."

"I missed my point," she admitted. "Wait a minute."

And for a space they rode in silence.

"I see it more clearly than I can state it, but it's something like this. There is legitimate work, and there's work that—well, that isn't legitimate. The farmer works the soil and produces grain. He's making something that is good for humanity. He actually, in a way, creates something, the grain that will fill the mouths of the hungry."

"And then the railroads and market-riggers and the rest proceed to rob him of that same grain," Daylight broke in.

"There ain't much difference between playing halfway robber like the railroad hauling that farmer's wheat to market, and playing all robber and robbing the robbers like I do. And, besides, halfway robbery is too slow a game for me to sit in. You don't win quick enough for me."

"But what do you want to win for?" Dede demanded. "You have millions and millions, already; why can't you do good with all your money?"

Daylight laughed.

"Doing good with your money! Ain't it funny, to go around with brass knuckles and a big club, breaking folks' heads and taking their money away from them until I've got a pile, and then, repenting of my ways, going around and handing up the heads the other robbers are breaking? I leave it to you. That's what doing good with money amounts to. Every one in a while some robber turns soft-hearted and takes to driving an ambulance. That's what Carnegie did. He smashed heads in pitched battles at Homestead, regular wholesale head-breaker he was, held up the suckers for a few hundred million, and now he goes around dribbling it back to them. Funny? I leave it to you."

He rolled a cigarette and watched her half curiously, half amusedly. His replies and harsh generalizations of a harsh school were disconcerting, and she came back to her earlier position.

"I can't argue with you, and you know that. No matter how right a woman's, men have such a way about them—well, what they say sounds most convincing, and yet the words are still certain they are wrong. But there is one thing, the creative joy; and it's a higher joy than mere gambling. Haven't you ever made things yourself—a log cabin up in the Yukon, or a canoe, or raft, or something? And don't you remember how satisfied you were, how good you felt, while you were doing it and after you had it done?"

While she spoke his memory was busy with the associations she recalled. He saw the deserted flat on the river bank by the Klondike, and he saw the log cabins and warehouses spring up, and all the log structures he had built, and his sawmills working night and day on three shifts.

"Why, do you see it, Miss Mason, you're right—in a way. I've built hundreds of houses up there, and I remember them. And there was Ophir—the most God-forsaken moose-pasture of a creek you ever laid eyes on. I made that into the big Ophir."

Why, I ran the water in there from the Rinkabilly, eighty miles away. They all said I couldn't, but I did it, and I did it by myself. The dam and the dums cost me four million. But you should have seen that Ophir—power plants, electric lights, and hundreds of men on the payroll, working night and day. I guess I got an inkling of what you mean by making

"I Like You, Mr. Harnish, and That Is All."

a thing. I made Ophir, and she was a hummer."

"And you won something there that was more than mere money," Dede encouraged. "Now do you know what I would do if I had lots of money and simply had to go on playing at business? Take all the southern and westerly slope of these bare hills. I'd buy them in and plant oranges on them. I'd do it for the joy of doing it anyway; but suppose I had that gambling twirl in me which you talk about, why, I'd do it just the same and make money out of the trees. And there's my other point again. Instead of raising the price of coal without adding an ounce of coal to the market supply, I'd be making thousands and thousands of cords of firewood—making something where nothing was before. And everybody who ever crossed on the ferries would look up at those forested hills and be made glad. Who was made glad by your adding four dollars a ton to Rock Wells?"

It was Daylight's turn to be silent for a time while she waited an answer.

"Would you rather I did things like that?" he asked at last.

"It would be better for the world, and better for you," she answered non-committally.

CHAPTER XVI.

All week every one in the office knew that something new and big was afoot in Daylight's mind. On Sunday Dede learned all about it.

"I've been thinking a lot of our talk," he began, "and I've got an idea I'd like to give it a flutter. And I've got a proposition to make your hair stand up. It's what you call legitimate, and at the same time it's the goat-dangdest gamble a man ever went into. How about planting millions of whole pine, and making two minutes grow where one minute grew before? Oh, yes, and planting a few trees, too—say several million of them. You remember the quarry I made believe I was looking at? Well, I'm going to buy it. I'm going to buy those hills, too, clear from here around to Berkeley and down the other way to San Leandro. I own a lot of them already, for that matter. But this is the word. I'll be buying a long time to come before anything much is guessed about it, and I don't want the market to jump up out of sight. You see that hill over there. It's my hill running clear down its slopes through Piedmont and halfway along those rolling hills into Oakland. And it's nothing to all the things I'm going to buy."

He paused triumphantly.

"The ferry system between Oakland and San Francisco is the worst one-horse concern in the United States. You cross on it every day, six days in the week. That's say, twenty-five days a month, or three hundred a year. How long does it take you one way? Forty minutes, if you're lucky. I'm going to put you across in twenty minutes. If that ain't making two minutes grow where one grew before, knock off my head with little apples. I'll save you twenty minutes each way. That's forty minutes a day, times three hundred, equal to twelve thousand minutes a year, just for you, just for one person. Let's see; that's two hundred whole hours. Suppose I save two hundred hours a year for thousands of other folks—that's farming some, ain't it? Come on. Let's ride up that hill, and when I get you out on top where you can see something, I'll talk sense."

A small footpath dropped down to the dry bed of the canyon, which they crossed before they began the climb. The slope was steep and covered with matted brush and bushes, through which the horses slipped and lunged. Showers of twigs and leaves fell upon them, and predicament followed predicament, until they emerged on the hilltop the worse for wear but happy and excited. Here no trees obstructed the view. The particular hill on which they were, outjugged from the regular line of the range, so that the sweep of their vision extended over three-quarters of the circle. Below, on the flat land bordering the bay, lay Oakland, and across the bay was San Francisco. Between the two cities they could see the white ferry-boats on the water. Around to their right was Berkeley, and to their left the scattered villages between Oakland and San Leandro. Directly in the foreground was Piedmont, with its desultory dwellings and patches of farming land, and from Piedmont the land rolled down in successive waves upon Oakland.

"Look at it," said Daylight, extending his arm in a sweeping gesture. "A hundred thousand people there, and no reason there shouldn't be half a million. There's the chance to make five people grow where one grows now. Here's the scheme in a nutshell. Why don't more people live in Oakland? No good service with San Francisco, and, besides, Oakland is asleep. It's a whole lot better place to live in than San Francisco. Now, suppose I buy in all the street railways of Oakland, Berkeley, Alameda, San Leandro, and the rest—bring them under one head with a competent management? Suppose I cut the time to San Francisco one-half by building a big pier out there almost to Goat Island and establishing a ferry system with modern up-to-date boats? Why, folks will want to live over on this side. Very good. They'll need land on which to build. So, first I buy up the land. But the land's cheap now. Why? Because it's in the country, no electric roads, no quick communication, no body guessing that the electric roads are coming. I'll build the roads. That will make the land jump up. Then I'll sell the land as fast as the folks will want to buy because of the improved ferry system and transportation facilities."

BURNING ITCH WAS CURED

"I deem it my duty to tell about a cure that the Cuticura Soap and Ointment have made on myself. My trouble began in spotsches breaking out right in the edge of my hair on the forehead, and spread over the front part of the top of my head from ear to ear, and over my ears which caused a most fearful burning itch, or eczema.

"For three years I had this terrible breaking out on my forehead and scalp. I tried our family doctor and he failed to cure it. Then I tried the Cuticura Soap and Ointment and used them for two months with the result of a complete cure. Cuticura Soap and Ointment should have the credit due, and I have advised a lot of people to use them." (Signed) C. D. Tharrington, Creek, N. C., Jan. 26, 1911.

Itching Scalp—Hair Fell Out.

"I will say that I have been suffering with an itching on my scalp for the past few years. My hair fell out in spots all over my head. My scalp started to trouble me with sores, then the sores healed up, and crusts formed on the top. Then the hair fell out and left me three bald spots the shape of a half dollar. I went to more than one doctor, but could not get any relief, so I started to use the Cuticura Remedies. I tried one bar of Cuticura Soap, and some Cuticura Ointment, and felt relieved right away. Now the bald spots have disappeared, and my hair has grown, thanks to the Cuticura Soap and Ointment. I highly recommend the Cuticura Remedies to all that are suffering with scalp trouble." COURTS MUST BE INDEPENDENT

Republican Platform Demands Freedom of Judiciary.

RECALL STRONGLY OPPOSED

Changes in Anti-Trust Laws Framed—Protective Tariff Approved and Modifications Suggested—Lauds Present and Past Administrations.

Chicago.—The following is the platform adopted by the Republican national convention on Saturday afternoon:

"The Republican party, assembled by its representatives in national convention, declares its unchanging faith in government of the people, by the people, for the people. We renew our allegiance to the principles of the Republican Institutions established by the fathers.

"We believe in our self-controlled representative democracy which is a government of laws, not of men, and in which order is the prerequisite of progress. The Republican party will strive, not only in the nation, but in the several states, to enact the necessary legislation to safeguard the public health; to limit effectively the labor of women and children and to protect wage-earners engaged in dangerous occupations; to enact comprehensive and generous workman's compensation laws in place of the present wasteful and unjust system of employers' liability; and in all possible ways to satisfy the just demand of the people for the study and solution of the complex and constantly changing problems of social welfare.

"The Republican party reaffirms its intention to uphold at all times the authority and integrity of the courts, both state and federal, and it will ever insist that their powers to enforce their process and protect life, liberty and property shall be preserved inviolate.

"That the courts, both federal and state, may bear the heavy burden laid upon them to the complete satisfaction of public opinion we favor legislation to prevent long delays and the tedious and costly appeals which have so often amounted to a denial of justice in civil cases and to a failure to protect the public at large in criminal cases.

"Since the responsibility of the judiciary is so great, the standards of judicial action must be always and everywhere above suspicion and reproach. While we regard the recall of judges as unnecessary and unwelcome, we favor such action as may be necessary to simplify the process by which any judge who is found to be derelict in his duty may be removed from office.

"Together with peaceful and orderly development at home, the Republican party earnestly favors all measures for the establishment and protection of the peace of the world, and for the development of closer relations between the various nations of the earth.

"It believes most earnestly in the peaceful settlement of international disputes and in the reference of all justifiable controversies between nations to an international court of justice.

"The Republican party favors the enactment of legislation supplementary to the existing anti-trust act, which will define as criminal offenses those specific acts that uniformly mark attempts to restrain and to monopolize trade, to the end that those who honestly intend to obey the law may have a guide for their action and that those who aim to violate the law may be more surely punished.

"In the enforcement and administration of federal laws governing interstate commerce and enterprises impressed with a public use engaged therein, there is much that may be committed to a federal trade commission, thus placing in the hands of an administrative board many of the functions now necessarily exercised by the courts.

"We reaffirm our belief in a protective tariff. The protective tariff is so woven into the fabric of our industrial and agricultural life that to substitute for it a tariff for revenue only would destroy many industries and throw millions of our people out of employment. The products of the farms and of the mine should receive the same measure of protection as other products of American labor.

"We hold that the import duties should be high enough while yielding a sufficient revenue to protect adequately American industries and wages. Some of the existing import duties are too high and should be reduced. Readjustment should be made from time to time to conform to changing conditions and to reduce excessive rates, but without injury to any American industry. To accomplish this correct information is indispensable. This information can best be obtained by an expert commission, as the large volume of useful facts contained in the recent reports of the tariff board has demonstrated.

"The pronounced feature of modern industrial life is its enough diversification. To apply tariff rates justly to these changing conditions requires closer study and more scientific methods than ever before. The Republican party has shown by its creation of a tariff board, its recognition of this situation, and its determination to be equal to it. We condemn the Democratic party for its failure either to provide funds for the continuance of this board or to make some other provision for securing the information requisite for intelligent tariff legislation. We protect against the Democratic method of legislating on these vitally important subjects without careful investigation.

"We condemn the Democratic tariff bills passed by the house of representatives of the sixty-second congress as sectional, as injurious to the public credit and as destructive of business enterprise.

"The Republican party will support a prompt scientific inquiry into the causes which are operative, both in the United States and elsewhere, to increase the cost of living. When the exact facts are known, it will take the necessary steps to remove any abuses that may be found to exist, in order that the cost of the food, clothing and shelter of the people may in no way be unduly or artificially increased.

"Our banking arrangements today need further revision to meet the requirements of new conditions. We need measures which will prevent the recurrence of money panics and financial disturbances and which will promote the prosperity of business and the welfare of labor by producing constant employment. We need better currency facilities for the movement of crops in the west and south. We need banking arrangements under American auspices for the encouragement and better conduct of our foreign trade. In attaining these ends the independence of individual banks, whether organized under national or state charters, must be carefully protected and our banking and currency system must be safeguarded from any possibility of domination by sectional, financial or political interests.

"We recommend and urge an authoritative investigation of agricultural credit societies and corporations in other countries and the passage of state and federal laws for the establishment and capable supervision of organizations having for their purpose the loaning of funds to farmers.

"We reaffirm our adherence to the principle of appointment to public office based on proved fitness and tenure during good behavior and efficiency. The Republican party stands committed to the maintenance, extension and enforcement of the civil service law and it favors the passage of legislation empowering the president to extend the competitive service so far as practicable.

"We favor the amendment of the federal liability law so as to extend its provisions to all government employees as well to employ a more liberal scale of compensation for injury and death.

"We favor such additional legislation as may be necessary more effectively to prohibit corporations from contributing funds, directly or indirectly, to campaigns for the nomination or election of the president, vice-president, senators and representatives in congress.

"We heartily approve the recent act of congress requiring the fullest publicity in regard to all campaign contributions.

"We rejoice in the success of the distinctive Republican policy of conservation of the natural resources for their use by the public without waste and monopoly. We pledge ourselves to a continuance of such a policy.

Parcels Post.

"In the interest of the general public and particularly of the agricultural or rural communities, we favor legislation looking to establishment, under proper regulations, of a parcels post, the postal rates to be graduated under a zone system in proportion to the length of the carriage.

"We approve the action taken by the president and the congress to secure with Russia as with other countries a treaty that will recognize the absolute right of expatriation and that will prevent all discrimination of whatever kind between American citizens.

"We believe in the maintenance of an adequate navy for the national defense and we condemn the action of the Democratic house of representatives in refusing to authorize the construction of additional ships.

"We believe that one of the country's most urgent needs is a revived merchant marine. The Mississippi river is the nation's drainage ditch. Hence we believe the federal government should assume a fair proportion of the burden of its control so as to prevent the disasters from recurring floods.

"We favor a liberal and systematic policy for the improvement of our rivers and harbors. Such improvements should be made upon expert information and after a careful comparison of cost and prospective benefits.

Immigration Laws.

"We pledge the Republican party to the enactment of appropriate laws to give relief from the constantly growing evil of induced or undesirable immigration, which is inimical to the progress and welfare of the people of the United States.

"We favor the speedy enactment of laws to provide that seamen shall not be compelled to endure involuntary servitude and that life and property at sea shall be safeguarded by the ample equipment of vessels with life-saving appliances and with full complements of skilled, able-bodied seamen to operate them.

"We commend the earnest effort of the Republican administration to secure greater economy and increased efficiency in the conduct of government.

"We call upon the public to quicken their interest in public affairs, to condemn and punish lynchings and other forms of lawlessness and to strengthen in all possible ways a respect for law and the observance of it."

DURING THE DISCUSSION.

Mr. Spat—Now, if you'll just listen to me—

Mrs. Spat—Oh, you can't convince me.

Mr. Spat—Probably not, but if we're going to spend the rest of the night in argument I want my share of the time.

Needed No More Help.

An American gentleman got acquainted with a Frenchman who was very anxious to acquire the English language. The American in order to help him said that if he would send his exercises to him he would willingly correct them.

Nothing was heard from the Frenchman for some time, but finally a letter came couched in the following English:

"In small time I can learn so many English from his text-book and his dictionary as I think I will come at the America and to go on the scaffold to lecture."

DOCTOR'S SHIFT.

Now Gets Along Without It.

A physician says: "Until last fall I used to eat meat for my breakfast and suffered with indigestion until the meat had passed from the stomach."

"Last fall I began the use of Grape-Nuts for breakfast and very soon found I could do without meat, for my body got all the nourishment necessary from the Grape-Nuts and since then I have had no indigestion and am feeling better and have increased in weight."

"Since finding the benefit I derived from Grape-Nuts I have prescribed the food for all my patients suffering from indigestion or over-feeding and also for those recovering from disease where I want a food easy to take and certain to digest and which will not overtax the stomach."

"I always find the results I look for when I prescribe Grape-Nuts. For ethical reasons please omit my name. Name given by mail by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich."

The reason for the wonderful amount of nutriment, and the easy digestion of Grape-Nuts is not hard to find.

In the first place, the starchy part of the wheat and barley goes through various processes of cooking, to perfectly change the starch into dextrose or grape-sugar, in which state it is ready to be easily absorbed by the blood.

The parts in the wheat and barley which Nature can make use of for rebuilding brain and nerve centers are retained in this remarkable food, and thus the human body is supplied with the powerful strength producers, so easily noticed after one has eaten Grape-Nuts each day for a week or ten days.

"There's a reason" and it is explained in the little book, "The Road to Wellville," in page.

Ever read the above letter? A new use appears from time to time. They are genuine, true, and full of human interest.

KEEPING BABIES IN HEALTH

Success of Tent Scheme Last Summer So Pronounced That It Will Be Repeated.

Mothers of little babies that suffered much from the intense heat in the early part of July last summer will be interested in the success of the "baby tent" scheme adopted in some of the big cities.

The tents are placed on flat roofs of tall buildings and in open lots, with eight little cradles or cots in each tent. When all was ready mothers of babies under two years were invited to leave them at the nearest available tent over night, so that the youngsters, in addition to enjoying the privilege of sleeping out of doors, could also receive the attention of trained nurses and doctors free.

Some of the tents have a perforated iron pipe extending along the ridge pole and connected with the city water supply. On very hot nights the water was turned on and allowed to stream down over the canyons. By evaporation it greatly reduced the temperature inside the tents. Some of the tents were also kept cool by the use of large blocks of ice in tubs before the entrance. Electric fans blew the cold air from the ice into the tents sufficiently to keep the babies comfortably cool.

This is the way some of the poor babies are being cared for, but the ideas could be utilized by any one who had the welfare of the baby at heart.

The First Consideration.

At St. Andrews some years ago an old farmer and his plowman were carting sand from the seashore. They were behind the target on the rifle-range, but hidden by a bank of sand from a party of volunteers, who were then on foot, at practice. A stray bullet struck the plowman on the leg, and he immediately dropped, exclaiming: "I'm shot!"

Without more ado the farmer scrambled up the bank and, waving his hands to the volunteers, shouted: "Hey, lads, stop that, will ye? You've shot a man, and it might have been the horse!"—London Tit-Bits.

Uneasy.

"Why do you avoid Mrs. Wombat?" "I think she's been talking about me."

"Nonsense. I'm with her constantly, and I've never heard her say a word." "Well, there's no telling when she'll begin." She moved into the house we moved out of.

Some men think money can do anything. A certain rich man sent for the doctor, who looked him over and then pronounced judgment.

"You have been living too high." "Maybe I have. There are many good things in the markets."

"No levity. You have violated nature's laws and you must pay the penalty."

"Pay the penalty? Oh, come now. Doc. Can't you get me off on a technicality or something?"

Very Few Copperheads.

The copperhead, although deadly venomous, seldom attains a length of more than three feet, and is, fortunately, not plentiful, comparatively few people having ever seen one. Its favorite haunt is a rocky, mountainous woodland, and never an open meadow.

How to Succeed.

If you want to succeed in this world you must make your own opportunities as you go on. BOLD HORSE THIEVES

THOSE OF AFGHANISTAN ARE MOST DARING IN WORLD.

How They Saw the Mud Walls of the Stable to Reach Their Booty—Stealing a Soldier's Mount From Under His Nose.

The Khyber pass is the chief gateway into Afghanistan. Sixteen miles south of it is the city of Peshawar. The adjoining valley and hills have always been the haunts of professional thieves. The objects which they most covet are arms, money and horses. In securing these they evince great skill and daring.

Their most popular mode of horse stealing requires at least three men to carry it out comfortably and successfully. One of them quietly steals his way into the stable and lays hold of a cord which has been pushed through one of the holes in the wall by an accomplice outside.

The two use this string as a saw, while the third man pours upon it a plentiful supply of water. The cord silently and speedily cuts its way down the mud wall.

In a wonderfully short time the three crisscrossed the wall, saw round a portion of the wall, which, when pushed outward, leaves a space sufficient to allow a horse to pass out.

This done, the remaining work presents no difficulty. The ropes which bind the horse are cut, and in a short time he is cantering to the hills with generally two or three of his new masters on his back.

A somewhat bold and impudent exploit in the horse stealing line was once the amusement and the talk of the English military station for some days. The cantonment was surrounded at sundown by a chain of sentries. This demanded a great number of men, and all regiments, cavalry and infantry, European and natives, nightly gave their proportions.

A native trooper on this occasion fastened his horse to the peg fixed about the middle of his "bent," and to keep his courage and himself warm—the night was dark and bitterly cold—walked smartly backward and forward.

The extent of this walk was not more than thirty yards, and thus at no time could he have been more than fifteen yards from his charger. He was armed with a short rifle and a tulwar or sword.

While he was thus doing duty a hillman managed to crawl quite close to him without exciting notice, and, waiting quietly until the sentry was near the end of his walk, and, of course, with his back to the horse, the robber cut the charger's rope, mounted him and in a moment was off.

The sentry fired his rifle in the direction in which his mount had gone, the guards turned out, and a great noise was raised, but the outwitted soldier never saw his horse again. Harper's Weekly.

Self-Discipline.

What we do on some great occasion will probably depend on what we already are, and what we are will be the result of previous years of self-discipline.—Canon Liddon.

Hurt in the Sequel.

Graham Ferguson has just returned after an absence of six months on "the other side." Fergie did not spend all his time abroad at the home of his Ayrshire ancestors; he visited Switzerland and Italy and did not neglect Paris. It was in this famous city that he witnessed a famous fight.

"When I was in France," he told a newspaper friend Sunday, "I saw a duel."

"Oh! One of those French duels, eh? Nobody was hurt, I presume?"

"You are wrong there. One of the contestants was seriously injured."

"One of the contestants? Surely you mean, a bystander or a second or a surgeon?"

"No, sir; one of the duellists. He had a rib broken."

"You astound me! One of those toy rapiers could not smash a rib, surely?"

"Rapier, nothing! The brave man's rib was broken in the embrace with his opponent, after the duel was over."

MERCY THAT STINGS

NIGHT COURT JUDGE METES OUT DISGUISED INJUSTICE.

Fashionable Women Enjoy His Cruelly Impertinent Questioning of Forlorn Girl and Then Praise Him for His Kindness.

"She's been up here thirty times," said the court officer, with a backward jerk of his thumb.

She wasn't a bad looking girl at all. Not many months ago she had been a very good looking girl indeed. In spite of the slush underfoot and the drizzling rain that had been falling, she was not noticeably bedraggled when she came into the night court for women. One chelly noticed that her eyes were dull and her bearing careless. She had become used to the routine of her life—and that routine included the court. Emotion had been burned out of her by the caustic existence. A flare of drunken anger—a maudlin sob—were her limits of expression. She mounted the bridge dreadingly, hopelessly. It was evident enough the girl didn't care.

"Ask her—"

A buzz of whispering filled the court room. One looked up to see a boy of handsomely dressed woman sitting by the side of the judge. They were evening gowns. Gossamer sparkled against the pallor of their breasts. Their fair shoulders were protected against the drench of the filthy courtroom by costly furs. They rested while kid elbows upon the judge's desk and propped their arrogant and complacent faces in slender hands and stared that dingy courtroom down. The judge had obviously been dining with them. His handsome face was flushed and he often laughed behind his hand with the prettiest of his callers. At their prompting he asked that poor, bedeviled, hopeless woman who stood before him questions that were still cruelly impertinent, though he was a judge and she a woman of the streets.

The silk clad woman by his side tilted and exchanged mocking glances. The woman's voice grew hoarse and strained as she replied. She stared at the women of another world as those women of the poor streets in Paris may have stared at the women of the court some hundred odd years ago.

"You may go now," said the judge, silkily. The women who sat by his side upon a bench that had been defiled, stretched out their pretty heads and patted him gently upon the arm.

"How good you are to these people," said one to him, addressing him by his first name.

The old court officer was leading the woman toward the door. A bright spot burned high upon her cheek-bone. The flames of rage flared in her widely opened, staring eyes.

"G'wan now, kid," said the old court officer, patting her shoulder with awkward kindness. "Don't you care."

At the Bird Store Window.

The bird store window is an unfailing attraction to many people. Perhaps it attracts men more than women, but it is a magnet that draws all children.

Let small boys or girls discover a bird store and they halt and linger long, wondering over or admiring the strange or beautiful feathered creatures within, and children walking with their mother if they should spy this window are sure to tug her toward it to give them a chance to look in.

The bird store window interests all children, as it appears to interest also many grown men who may be drawn to it by a natural fondness for birds and animals, or be attracted by the novel or striking character of the exhibit on view.

Here, for instance, in this window is a white peacock, a remarkable bird seen with its plumage in whatever form. As with characteristic deliberation it walks about with its long tall feathers folded and trailing people stop to look at it, and then let it raise and spread its great white fan and many more halt and gather in a crowd around the window.—New York Sun.

was the first met with more or less opposition, prejudice and hostility. But true merit wins and for this reason THE IMPERISHABLE SILO at once wins the favor of all "good builders," who wish a structure permanent, economical and satisfactory. Its patented hollow blocks of vitrified clay have double dead air spaces to prevent severe freezing. They absorb no moisture and will never crumble or decay. An IMPERISHABLE SILO never blows down, which is in marked contrast with stave silos. Superior to concrete for it is acid-proof and non-porous. It keeps the silage perfectly clear up to the wall. Cannot crack or bulge from pressure of silage as the channel blocks carry steel bars buried in mortar, protected from air and cannot rust. These afford abundant strength and are warranted to resist silage pressure.
